"Prairie Belle."

Bresuse he don't live, you see, Lesstways he's got out of the habit Of living like you and me. Wha' her you been the last three year, That you have't heard folks tell, How Jimmy Bludso passed to his obcoks The night of the Prairie Bell. ?

Well no. I oso's tell wha' he lives,

He wer'at no saint, them engineers Is all pretty much alike— Oas wife in Natch z ucd ir the Hill, And another here in Pike. A keerless men in bis talk was Jim,

And an awkward hadd in a row, But he never flacked and he never lied, I guess he never knowed how. And this was all the religion be had, To treat bis entice well, Never be passed on the river, And to mind the Pilot's bell;

And if ever the Prairie Bell tock fire A thousand times he swere, He'd hold her nezz's sgin the back Till the last soul got ashere. All boats has their day on the Mississippi, And her day came at last,-

The "Movaster" was a better boat, But the "Belle" she wou'd i't be passed, And so she came tearing along that night, The oldest craft on the line, With a nigg r equat on bor safety-valve. And her turunas orammed, rozia and pice.

The fire burst out as she cleared the bar, And burnt a hole in the night.

And quick as a flash she in ned and made For the willow back on the right. There was ruonia' and cussia', but Jim yolled out Over all the infernal roor,

"Il bold ber cozzle sgio the bank Till the last galoot's astore.' Through the hot black breath of the burgio

Jim Blodso's voice was heard, And they eli bad trust in his oussedness, And knowed he would keep his word. And sures your burn they all got off Afore the smoke stacks fell, And Budso's ghost went up alone In the smoke of the "Prairie Bell."

Ha wern's no saint, but at judgment, I'd run my chacce, with Jim, Long side of some pious gen lemsp Who wouldn't shook hauds with him. He seen bis duty, a dead sure thing, And woos for it there and then, And the Lord ain't agoing to be too hard

Oa a man that died for men. [COMMUNICATED. NOAH'S CARPENTERS - Noah's ark was an immense versal, the largest ever built. He: doubtless, had the assistance of large numbers of workmen in constructing it. Some may have helped him from feelings of personal friendship; it is not impossible that others may have assist. ed from a wish to be regarded as public spirited. for it was the most megaificent scheme that ever had entered into the human brain is those days. Others may have contributed their quota in the hope that it would benefit their friends and neighbore; and sill others, doubtless, work ed upon it for hire. But the sad fact remains. that of all the bundreds, or the thousands who was saved; all were overwhelmed in the billows of Divine wrath. The world is full of just such people to day. Thry ricogo'z; the Ci urch as a grand institution. From motives of personal friendship to i's members, they con!ribute to the support of the Gaspel; as public spirited men, they sid in creetisg rich, and costly, and boantiful bouses of worship; to reflect their own taste and culture, they contribute freely of time and means to adora the sanotuary believing that it will be of incalculable beesfis to others, and especially to the poor and ignorant and deg aded, they assist in building churches for the salvation of others, but, like Noah's carpenters, they do not themeelves reter in. It were well for those who condemn the short-eighted and fital policy of the antediluvian Liends of Nosh, seriously to examine their own atti-ude toward the great ark of salvation. Public spirited, liberal, generous in matters pertaining to oburch work, they may b ; wives, abildren, parente, loved ones may be considered faithful members of the church. But unless they themselves believe the tru b as revealed by Gid to mac-believing, put their ontire trust in Him through Jesus-trusting, make use of the means which Ho has prescribed; and having entered in, are themselves shut in by the Almighty; all their good works and religious offor's are of no avail. Eren as the consciousness of baving helped to buil the ark, may have added to the paogs of sem , who saw is siding in safety over the water which engalphed them even so the remembracos of their neglected and misspent opportunities, their nesrouss to salvation may add to the temoree of those who are almost savedyet lost. - Loutsville Observer.
